Dear Dr. Martin,

Greetings!

The National Police Commission celebrates the national crime prevention week during the first week of September. With its theme Pamayanang Mapagmasid, Kapayapaan ang Maihahatid, we would like to encourage the citizenry to be more vigilant and report crime as it is committed with the authority as soon as possible or to help in the apprehension of suspected law offenders by providing information they have.

To promote this desire, we are coming out with an on the spot painting contest with the participants to paint their own take on the theme. May we thus invite representatives from the city's main high schools, namely: Baguio City High School, Pines City High School and Irisan National High School to the contest on Sept. 20. The contest will be held at the Baguio City Police Office – conference hall from 8 Am until 12 noon on said date. We have a limited number of slots and so please contact the undersigned for confirmation at 0998 853 0186.

We will also ask the students post their work online, especially on Facebook to help us promote vigilance within our community.

The participants will be given art materials like canvas and paints to be used during the event. Moreover, all participants are assured to receive P500 for their effort unless they land among the top three, where bigger cash prizes will be given. The awards day will be on Sept. 29 at a venue we will announce prior the awards day.

We look forward to your kind response and hoping that you send a representative to the art contest.

Sincerely,

MARICAR A. DOCYOGEN
