The round metal gong of the Cordillera is known locally as "tangguyob" as a symbol of the upland people's culture that has been passed on from generations to another.
 The profile of a person blowing a "tangguyob" represents a community being called for an important matter or action.
 The lines that shape the mountains, the treetops, the gorges and rivers symbolize the connectivity and flow of human interaction in a geographical space.
 All the symbols combined represent unity and harmony of the people with culture and environment in bearing the gong for self-determination.
